

I am commenting on the FCC sticking its nose into Indiana's No Call List. I am an Indiana and Federal taxpayer. I enjoy not having telemarketers not calling my house 7 days a week from 7:30a.m. to 9:00p.m. If the federal government enjoys these calls then have them receive the calls and leave Indiana and its law alone. I do not think the Federal Government should be butting in to this issue. They have more important issues to look at such as balancing budgets and Homeland Security. All the people in Indiana that I work with enjoy the peace and quiet of not being bothered by telemarketers. I think the Federal government can look at all the junk e-mail that people get.
